

The project

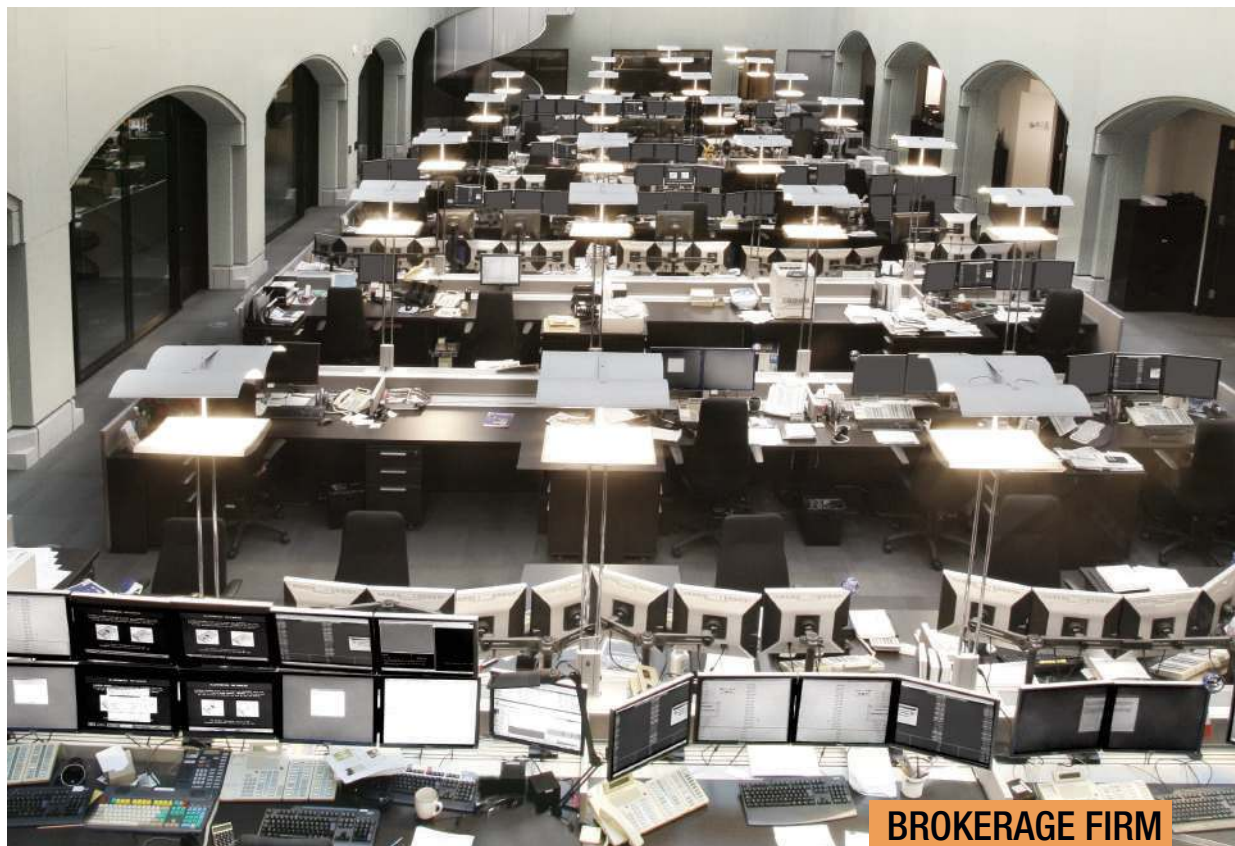

Desjardins Securities (DS) is a Desjardins Group subsidiary specializing in securities brokerage. It offers a wide range of products and investment services to individuals, institutional investors and corporations. Over one hundred and fifty brokers work in its new office in Montreal's Windsor Complex.

DS, which is located in a four storey atrium, wanted to create an environment in compliance with LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environment Design) regulations from the U.S.

Green Council. For this important project, DS required specialized furniture that would meet the brokers' needs while complying with the environmental values of the corporation.

Following a tendering process among the major manufacturers, Sustema was selected to undertake the project, largely because of the competitiveness of its products and its cutting-edge expertise.
